Discover your ‘Go All In’ style!

Everyone has their own way of getting “locked in”. Whether you love gaming, football, art or music, the way you focus is your superpower.

Pros at the top of their game use secret tricks to get ready. Take this quick quiz to find your Go All In style. When you pick your answers, think about the person you want to be or the “best version” of yourself. Choose the answers that match the version of you that is winning.

Remember, there are no wrong answers!

1

Imagine your future self is about to step up for a massive moment, whether that is playing in a cup final, launching your own project, or facing a huge challenge. What is your secret weapon?

A) I want a tactical breakdown! I want to know the opponent’s weaknesses, the hidden stats and the absolute best strategy to win.

B) I want to feel motivated. I need the ultimate team talk. I want to hear from someone who has been there before. Give me the motivational quotes and the mindset to succeed.

C) I need an escape. I want to forget the pressure entirely. I am escaping into a completely different storyline or world to clear my head.

2

You want to master a brand-new skill and it’s not going well. How do you level up?

A) Give me the step-by-step masterclass. I want the exact instructions, the detailed guides and the rules so I can perfect it.

B) Tell me the story of someone who failed but kept grafting. I want to know how the greats survived the tough times so I can build my resilience.

C) Show me the creative process. I want to get lost in the background story or the lore so I can figure out my own unique style.

3

You have thirty minutes of downtime before a big moment. Where’s your head at?

A) Figuring out the tactics. I am hunting for the latest news, deep-diving into stats, or working out the best possible game plan.

B) Building mental armour. I am soaking up stories of legendary athletes, artists or inspirational figures who overcame massive obstacles.

C) Taking a complete break. I am following an epic narrative, a graphic universe, or a fictional character’s journey.

4

If you were a professional e-sports captain or a top athlete, what would you be famous for?

A) Being the ultimate strategist who always knows the stats and the rulebook inside out.

B) Being the team motivator who always has the right words and the strongest mindset.

C) Being the creative maverick who brings imagination and a totally unique storyline to the game.

Your results

Count up your answers! Which letter did you choose the most?

Mostly A: The Tactical Mind

You get ahead by studying the game! You love breaking down stats, finding the best strategies and understanding how things work behind the scenes. You are the ultimate planner.

Your oracy superpower: Because you think like this, you have the potential to be brilliant at breaking down complex information and explaining tactics clearly to your teammates. These are the exact skills used by top sports coaches, business leaders, and game designers. In the future, people will look to you when they need someone to make sense of a complicated situation and clearly explain the winning plan.

Mostly B: The Mindset Master

You focus on resilience and motivation! You are fascinated by how people overcome massive challenges. You know that getting your mindset right is half the battle.

Your oracy superpower: This style means you can be great at reading the room, listening to people and knowing exactly what to say to motivate your mates. These are the same skills used by top sports captains, youth workers and team leaders. In the future, people will look to you when they need support, guidance and someone to bring out the best in the group.

Mostly C: The Hobbyist

You use imagination to stay sharp! You love getting lost in epic narratives, unique worlds, and creative stories. For you, a great storyline is the best way to stay inspired.

Your oracy superpower: Your imagination gives you the tools to be a fantastic storyteller. Escaping into new worlds is also a brilliant way to stay balanced in a busy world and look after your mental health when times are tough. With practice, you can be naturally good at keeping people hooked when you are speaking. These are the exact skills used by successful content creators, writers, and directors. In the future, people will look to you when they want to hear a powerful message, get lost in a new world or be inspired by your ideas.
